

ABSTRACT

A method for sending email from a remote location. The method includes generating an electronic mail message using a personal computing device, transferring the electronic mail to a satellite data communicator
5 configured to provide communication with a low earth orbiting satellite, and sending the electronic message to a low earth orbiting satellite using the satellite data communicator and an antenna coupled to the satellite data communicator.